1. At the end of December 1948, the Central Committee of NOF of the Aegean was trying to infiltrate into the Rebel ranks some reliable Slavo-Macedonians to make propaganda on its behalf. It is hoped that as a result, the Rebel Junta would be faced with two alternatives: either to order the arrest of a number of Macedonians (which would create an open quarrel between the Greek Communists and the Slavo-Macedonians and offer a chance for denouncing the Junta as the oppressor of minorities) or to give way to NOF demands. The NOF Central Committee thought the latter alternative was more probable.
2. The representatives of NOF of the Aegean had expected to make speeches on behalf of their organization at the Macedonian Communist Party Congress in Skopje on 19 December, but permission was withdrawn before the Congress opened. The NOF Central Committee believed that the "recommendation" to withdraw such permission was made to the Macedonian Communist Party by the Central Committee of the Yugoslav Communist Party.
3. The newly elected Central Committee of the Macedonian Communist Party organized a three member committee to maintain liaison with the Central Committee of NOF of the Aegean and to encourage the latter's activities and propaganda for eventual incorporation of the Aegean Macedonia into the Yugoslav Federal State of Macedonia. This committee consisted of Dmitar Vlahov, Mikhael Apostolovski, and Kyrov (first name unknown).
